Presenter: Major Chris Franklin, U.S. Army

Operations Officer, 2nd Battalion, 1st Brigade, 95th Division

How Computers & Computerized Gadgets Are Used By Infantry Warfighters in Afghanistan: ("Military technology used as a combat multiplier")

- Photo show-and-tell from one year deployment as an Embedded Tactical Trainer with an Infantry Company of Afghan soldiers.
- Rugged computers, satellite phones, Blue Force Trackers, hand-launched Raven aircraft for day or night aerial observation, GPS, listening devices, and more
- Numerous computer-related applications are widely used by US Infantry forces, and many can be explained and discussed without compromising classified information.
